NATIONAL IS TAKEN OVER BY NEW OWNERS

Leo Weintraubs Buy From Robert Ryan

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Weintraub of Sacramento this week purchased the historic National Hotel on Broad Street and began operation of the hostelry Feb. 1. Former owner was Robert Ryan of San Francisco.

The new managers, who have operated large hotels in southern California for many years, will make their home at the National, they announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Weintraub will operate the dining room and hotel without change in program or personnel, they announced.

The National Hotel, built on the ashes of the original National Exchange which burned Nov. 8, 1863, was completed April 4, 1864. The hotel saw many owners during its 90-year history but was probably operated the longest by the Rector brothers, who owned it until 1924.

NUGGET HAS CHANGE OF OWNERSHIP

Wray and McKenney Form Partnership

Kenneth W. Wray and J. Wilson McKenney this week announced the formation of a partnership as editors and publishers of the Nevada City Nugget.

Wray, who has been employed as editor and advertising manager of The Nugget since February, 1949, purchased the interests of his brothers, Donald and Robert, last Tuesday. He then sold a half interest in the weekly newspaper and commercial printing plant to McKenney effective Wednesday morning.

Donald Wray, who has been working in the shop for the past year, left Tuesday for Oakland where he will visit relatives. His future plans are indefinite. Robert has been employed as a linotype operator in the bay area for several months.

Wray and McKenney will divide duties as editors but Wray will assume primary responsibilities in the shop as operator and printer. McKenney, who is also a printer, will spend the greater part of his time as advertising salesman and news editor.

Ken is well known in the community as author of a vigorous editorial column. He is a member of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce and active in other community affairs.

No change in policy of the newspaper is planned by the partnership except a gradual improvement in plant facilities and service to the community. No additional personnel will be employed at the present time.

McKenney negotiated with the Wray brothers in December for outright purchase of The Nugget but the agreement was modified when Wray was persuaded to obtain an interest in the property.

The new partner has purchased the home of Mrs. Hattie Lobdell at 341 Clay Street and the McKenney family expects to move in this weekend. Mr. and Mrs. McKenney have three school age children. He was formerly owner and editor of the Yucaipa News in San Bernardino county, which he sold last August. He formerly owned newspapers at Calipatria and LeGrand and was co-founder of the Desert magazine.

FRACTURES ELBOW

Leonard Foote, Jr., 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Foote, suffered a fractured right elbow when he fell while playing at the home. He is under care of Dr. Bernard W. Hummelt.

LARSEN ELECTED PRESIDENT OF SPORTSMEN CLUB

Carl Larsen succeeded Thomas W. Keckler as president of the Nevada County Sportsmen's club at a meeting held Monday night at city hall. Larsen, who has been active in sportsmen's activities for many years, is a custodian at the county court house.

Keckler was recently appointed chairman of the board of directors.

Other officers installed were Paul Viles, Grass Valley, vice president; and H. F. Sofge, Nevada City, secretary-treasurer.

Directors named to office were Carl Foote, Nevada City; Crofford Bridges, Cliff Dancer, Gene Johnson and Fred Emory, all of Grass Valley.

The club voted to set a work day the first clear Sunday this month when all members are to gather at the club site near the Canada Hill reservoir to build a parking lot.

The group also voted to entertain Sacramento-Sierra Sportsmen's Council at a dinner at the Gold Nugget Inn. Date of the dinner will be announced.

Emory and Johnson were appointed to serve as the investigating committee and Gus Vollmer was named sergeant-at-arms.

After the meeting William Mullis presented a motion picture on California redwoods and refreshments were served.

JUDGE JONES HONORED AT ANNUAL CONFERENCE OF SCOUT COUNCIL

Judge George L. Jones of Nevada City received a 30-year veteran service award at the 25th annual planning conference of the Tahoe area council, Boy Scouts of America, at Auburn on Sunday night.

Sam Partridge of Grass Valley received a 25 year veteran service award and a scouter's key. Mrs. Betty Frost of Grass Valley received a scouter's award for her activities as a den mother in the cubbing program.

Charles W. Lauppe, Roseville, was installed as council president for 1950, succeeding Judge Lowell L. Sparks, Auburn, who held the post for ten years.

Other council officers installed are James R. Johnson, Arnold R. Murchie and Guerdon Ellis, vice presidents; Judge Jones and Sparks, national representatives; Robert R. Schneider, commissioner, and William S. Cuff, treasurer.

Installation took place at an evening dinner held in Placer Union High School cafeteria. The dinner followed a day of meetings attended by 200 people.

Evening speaker was Dr. Duane Robinson, assistant professor of physical education at University of California Los Angeles. Dr. Robinson spoke on obligations of scouters in bettering youth.

Executive board members appointed this week include Dr. Jerome F. Frey, Horace Curnow and William Home, Nevada City.

SUPERVISORS DELAY BEALE ENDORSEMENT

Nevada County Board of Supervisors declined to take formal action on a flood of proposals favoring establishment of Camp Beale in Yuba county as a location for the air force's proposed academy.

Letters urging supervisors to endorse the proposal came from the Chambers of Commerce of Nevada City, Grass Valley and Marysville District, Carpenters' Union, Mine Workers Protective League, and several individuals.

Supervisor Frank Rowe, who presided in absence of Chairman Warren Odell, suggested endorsement be withheld until opinions can be obtained from livestock associations and tax groups urging that government owned lands go back to the tax rolls as soon as possible.

Improvement Resolution Okeyed By City Council

A resolution of public interest and necessity was adopted by the city council last night looking toward the improvement of the Nevada City sewage and fire protection systems.

City Attorney John Larue said that an ordinance outlining specifications and conditions for the improvement would be ready for passage by the council Feb. 16.

Date of the city-wide election on the proposed bond issues is set for Tuesday, April 11.

Date of election which includes a $130,000 bond issue for financing construction of proposed Nevada City sewage disposal plant, and $25,000 bond issue for purchase of a new fire truck and other fire department equipment and repairs was approved at a meeting of the council Jan. 23.

The council also discussed with W. H. Meuron, Pacific Gas and Electric company illumination engineer and city planning commission proposed plans to relight the city and to install lights at the ball park.

COORDINATION EXTENDED FOR BEALE SURVEY

Members of the Nevada County Board of Supervisors and the military affairs committee of the Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce Tuesday morning met with Warren Shingle and William Houserman of the Marysville district Chamber of Commerce military affairs committee to discuss details of a campaign to bring the "West Point of the Air" to Camp Beale.

Shingle and Houserman outlined the progress being made and the steps that were being taken to coordinate the drive. The two men, who are taking the lead in the movement to bring the air school to Camp Beale, expressed satisfaction with the cooperation being extended.

Tuesday night representatives of Nevada City and Grass Valley Chambers of Commerce military affairs committee attended a similar meeting in Marysville.

Attending were Stan Halls, Nevada City; Vern Roth, Chandler Church and Crofford Bridges, all of Grass Valley.

COUNTY PLANS TO ASSUME AID BURDEN MAR. 1

Nevada County Board of Supervisors began preparations on Wednesday morning for assuming the burden of aged and blind assistance by the county on Wednesday, March 1.

Kief D. Melberg, district supervisor of the state department of social welfare, was instructed to prepare an estimate of the cost of operating the program from March 1 to June 30.

The board will ask the state for necessary funds to operate for the four-months period and will request the present administrative staff, office building and equipment to be loaned to the county until July 1.

Melberg asked that 14 persons now on the state payroll be transferred to the county office. There are three persons already assigned to the county welfare office of which Miss Ernestine Eilerman is director.

Previous to opening of the department of social welfare office Melberg directed the county welfare office with a staff of nine.

Administration of the assistance agencies reverts to the county March 1. The county did not have the necessary assistance funds budgeted and will receive state aid for carrying out the program until the beginning of the new fiscal year July 1.

TWO COUNTY HOMES DESTROYED BY FIRE

Home and personal effects of Mr. and Mrs. William Glatt, near Grass Valley, and three-room cabin of Dan Nill in Rough and Ready were destroyed by fire Friday with loss estimated at $9,000.

State division of forestry dispatched a truck to each of the fires but the flames had too much headway in both cases and attempts to save the structures were not successful.

AIRPORT COST STUDY STOPS BOARD ACTION

Action on the proposed purchase of Loma Rica airport by the county was postponed yesterday by the board of supervisors until Gilbert Cramer of Grass Valley can supply a factual study of costs and maintenance.

Cramer, Grass Valley mayor and proponent of the field, said he believed the initial cost of the field would be less than $10,000.

Others who appeared before the board yesterday on behalf of the project included Carl G. Hand, district airport engineer of the CAA; W. B. Wisenand, airport design engineer of the California aeronautics commission; Kenneth A. Midkiff, CAA airport planning engineer; George Endter, Grass Valley airport manager; Downey Clinch, Alpha Hardware; and T. S. Davey.

NID PURCHASES WATER RIGHTS FROM OMEGA

Nevada irrigation district purchased water rights, system and reservoir site from Omega mining company following a stormy session of the board of directors of the district. Purchase price of the physical plant was quoted at $25,000 and the site of a reservoir on Jordan creek at $2,000.

Principal protestors of the purchase were representatives of the Nevada Irrigation District Water Users association.

C. G. Dana, representing non-district landowners of Harmony ridge, and C. J. Rolph, Nevada County Farm Bureau, spoke in favor of purchasing the water rights and system.

Forrest Varney, manager of the district, estimated a yield of 37,000 acre feet a year, almost half of the amount of water now annually sold by the district.

Varney explained the water would be furnished to Harmony ridge and the Blue Tent areas, with surplus being distributed to other parts of the district. To service the two areas the waters of Jordan creek would have to be impounded at point of the purchased reservoir site.

A provision of the purchase calls for the mining company retaining maintenance responsibility of the system until such time as the district is ready to use the water.

The directors also authorized purchase of a three-acre plot of land as a reservoir site near Banner mountain from Charles Taylor. The proposed reservoir would store water to supplement the Herring-Taylor and Banner reservoir system, and permit the use of stored water in the Gold Flat area through the Phoenix pipe line.

Ed Litke, Grass Valley, appeared before the directors and urged a chlorination plant for the Town Talk, Glenbrook, Hills Flat, Ridge Road and Alta Hill districts.

VISIT HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Wolf, students at Sacramento State college, visited Mrs. Wolf's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Bell Tuesday. The day was also Ike's birthday and the family honored him with a birthday dinner.

MOISTURE RECORD WELL AHEAD OF LAST YEAR; SNOWFALL EQUALLED

Although considerable more moisture has fallen so far this season in the Nevada City area than was reported to date last year, the snow fall was approximately the same.

Weatherman Fred Bush reported yesterday that 17.45 inches of moisture had been noted to date last year but 26.09 inches is on the books so far this year. Higher moisture content in snow was noted in recent storms.

Snow which started falling Friday noon turned into rain during the night to add 1.7 inches to the record, with .05 more Saturday. Tuesday .27 inches of moisture was recorded and four inches of snow was on the ground with continued cold weather making the roads icy for several days. Bush reported eleven inches of snow on the ground as ot Thursday morning.

Last year snow measured to date was 72 inches and this year to date the total stands at 71 inches.

Bush's report of temperatures for the week are as follows:

	Max.	Min.	Prec.
January 27	42	20
January 28	40	32	1.70
January 29	40	25	.05
January 30	41	17

$425,000 SUIT FOR INJURIES IS FILED HERE

Harry Smith, Vivian J. Smith and Charles B. Cross, through their attorney, C. Ray Robinson, Merced, filed personal injury complaints yesterday in county clerk's office and asked total damages of $425,000 from Leonard Silvey for injuries sustained in a truck-car crash in Truckee Jan. 19.

The defendant in the action, Leonard Silvey, is owner of the Silvey Livestock Transportation Co. Complaint states that Manuel Joseph Abreu, an employee, drove a Silvey truck into a Buick sedan in which the plaintiffs were riding. The crash occurred in the town of Truckee, Nevada county. Each of the plaintiffs suffered severe injuries, the complaint states.

Harry Smith asks damages of $175,000; his wife asks a similar amount, and Cross asks $75,000.

PRESLEY AND NILE PURCHASE ENGELL REALTY AGENCY

Presley and Nile, Nevada City real estate and insurance firm, this week purchased the Walter Engell real estate firm and began Wednesday to move to the Engell location in the National hotel building on Broad street.

Walter Engell and his son, Gene, who has been associated with him, expect to leave at once for southern California but they said their plans are indefinite.

Presley and Nile, who are leaving their location at 106 So. Pine, said they will make some alterations in their new offices and will announce their service plans next week.

JOHNSON SELLS HIS BRET HARTE DAIRY

U. S. N. Johnson sold his Bret Harte Dairy, which he has owned and operated for 23 years, to Irvin J. Heide, Lakeport, in a transaction effective March 1, it was disclosed yesterday.

"Nye" Johnson expects to devote most of his time at his mine at Alleghany and to raising gladioli and dahlias on his four-acre place on Jordan Street.

DEED SLOWS PROJECT

Officials of Nevada City have learned from Sacramento that the slowness of deed processing is all that is holding up final action of armory for Company E, 184th Infantry Regiment, California National Guard. Cashin field is proposed site for the armory.

LEGALITY TEST IN SLOT MACHINE LAW EXPECTED

16 Machines Seized In Surprise Raid

Legality of the present slot machine ordinance is expected to be tested, according to reports in courthouse circles, on the basis of improper publication of board of supervisors activities at the time the "San Diego" ordinance was adopted. The county ordinance makes possession of a slot machine a misdemeanor.

The long boiling slot machine problems of Nevada county came to a head Saturday afternoon when operatives hired by Nevada county grand jury raided and seized 16 slot machines from the Gold Nugget Inn and Tick's Place on the Nevada City-Grass Valley highway and the Duck Inn, located on Grass Valley-Colfax highway.

Francis C. Merens and Arthur Belleque, operators of the Gold Nugget Inn, pleaded not guilty to a charge of possession of illegal slot machines when arraigned Tuesday in Justice George W. Gildersleeve's court. Bail was set at $125 each.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hess of the Duck Inn and Abe Tick of Tick's place are awaiting arraignment in Grass Valley justice court.

Supervisor Frank Rowe, who has been involved in a long smouldering feud with other officials of the courthouse, commented on the raid:

"Wherever there is a heavy concentration of slot machines in one area the local peace officers are usually in on the deal."

Rowe declined to elaborate.

Rowe charged there are between 1,000 and 1,500 illegal slot machines in Nevada county.

The machines were seized in raids Saturday afternoon by operatives retained by the Nevada county grand jury.

Curtis Clark, foreman of the grand jury, and who accompanied District Attorney Vernon Stoll and Supervisor Frank Rowe on the raids, said the seizures were staged in utmost secrecy to avoid possibility of tipoff. Despite the secrecy however, phone calls were made to two of the establishments raided and officials believe other places were tipped off.

The tipoff by telephone reached the place simultaneously with the raiders and a bartender answered the tipster with "You're too late, bud, they're here now."

Machines in other establishments throughout the county disappeared except for console type of devices.

The 16 machines, believed to contain over $1,000 in coin, were transported to the sheriff's office, sealed and impounded. Transportation was commandeered in the form of a county truck from the garage located in Rowe's district.

Clark said the raids were to be interpreted as an indication the grand jury is not satisfied with enforcement of gambling laws in the county.

Sheriff Richard W. Hoskins reported his office was not asked to participate in the raid.

Sheriff Hoskins said his budget does not provide sufficient funds to properly police the county and investigate rumors of slot machine operation. "My men are all well known throughout the county and as a consequence it is difficult for them to obtain substantial evidence of illegal operations."

Hoskins added he has made numerous requests to the board of supervisors for additional men and funds to police all parts of the county but that all requests have been denied.

Max Solaro, chief of pilice of Nevada City, said the only machines in Nevada City are of the free play type. He added he was not advised of the planned raid.

Slot machines in Nevada City disappeared as if by magic at the time of the raids Saturday afternoon.

CAMP BEALE AND THE GREAT WHITE FATHER

A century ago when men streamed across the Sierras into the wilderness of California, they left government behind. They wrested their fortunes from the gold hoard in these hills and later when the yellow metal ran out they found wealth in the fertile lands of the valleys. At no point in the development of the west was government regarded as an aid except to establish a minimum for self-regulation.

In the last two decades we have seen a remarkable change in the public attitude toward government. Though many view with alarm the encroachment of bureaucracy into the private lives of citizens, we have come to accept federal intervention as inevitably as we accept the guidance of a father. This change is partly due to the growth of the welfare state, partly because the vastness of the task of bending nature to man's usefulness has required the huge resources of the federal treasury. This has welded a firm bond between government and economy; in effect we look to the guiding hand in Washington to direct the elements which determine our livelihood and standard of living.

In a sense this retreat from freedom and self-determination is a weakening factor in our society. Many believe that we should deny the patronage of the federal treasury and turn again to the old virtues of individualism and productive labor. But it is too late to turn back all the way.

We have a case before us this week which effects our local economy. The federal government, through the Department of Defense, expects to spend many millions of dollars to establish a permanent air academy in the nature of the Army's West Point and the Navy's Annapolis. Although hundreds of communities throughout the nation would like to pick off this plum, there is every indication that the air center will be chosen in the west. Our community leaders believe that Camp Beale, which served so admirably as an army staging area during the war, will provide all the elements desired in the new academy.

Tentatively, it is estimated that about 33,000 acres in the western edge of Nevada County will be included in the government reservation for the proposed development. If the defense department should eventually select this site this submarginal land will of course be withdrawn from county tax rolls. Which in itself, is an excellent bargain for local taxpayers. Already federal and state agencies spend over two million dollars a year in this county. The additional expenditures for local payrolls and materials would make us think the gold boom was with us again.

In order to present a forceful and factual justification to the government, officials and civic leaders of Nevada, Yuba and Sierra counties are working on a survey of Camp Beale potentials. It will cost between $4,000 and $5,000 to complete the ten-week study. Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce has already contributed $250 to the fund and Ike Bell says the Nevada City chamber will probably dig up $200. Yuba county supervisors have set aside $1,000. Coordination efforts to date have been excellent; a meeting was held recently in Grass Valley and another was held in Marysville Tuesday evening. Stanley Halls represents the Nevada City chamber and William Mullis is city council representative on the committee.

To return to our original thought, we must inevitably accept the fact that our economy is largely dependent on how well we recall federal funds to this area. This project involves no stigma of asking for a handout. We believe we have something special in Camp Beale which will serve the best interests of the nation. But we must not wait supinely for the Great White Father to put his finger on us. We face tough competition. We must accept the responsibility of community salesmanship . . . and if we make the sale we will enjoy comfortable profits. —jwm.

Happiness isn't so much a matter of position as it is disposition.

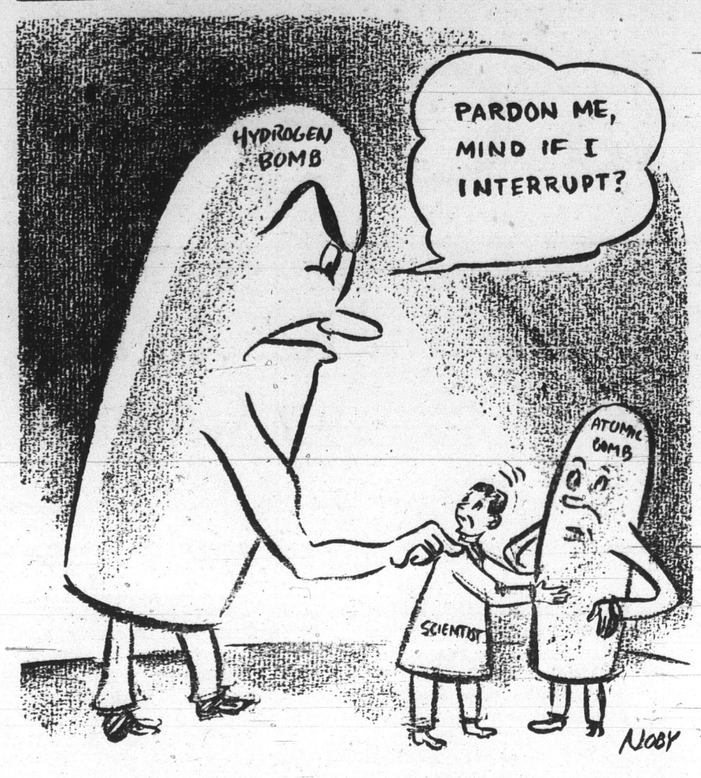
THE NEWCOMER



Just Wonderin'

I Wonder at the big H bomb—
I'm sure I'll never make one
And then I'm equally sure,
I'd rather make than break one.

Several years ago there was a book, popular at the time, in which the author asserted that the modern mind of man is a conglomerate make-up of many minds inherited from distant ages of the past. There was the primitive mind, inherited from arboreal ancestors, who nested in trees, or squatted in caverns among the rocks. Next there was the savage mind, developed while Neolithic man, stone weapons in hand, slugged his way among the monstrous beasties that beleaguered his pathway and thwarted his progress and menaced his life.

There is also the child mind which prevailed in the childhood of the world, when gods and goddesses dwelt on Mount Olympus and fays and fairies danced upon the river banks to the pipes of Pan. Man also inherited the medieval mind with all of its bigotries, prejudices and intolerances and these minds and many others were poured into the crucible of the ages, stirred by the hand of time and passed down to modern man in lieu of a mind that should by this time be complete and in good working order. What a mess!

As we look about the world of today and see the effects of modern mind over modern matters, is it any wonder that I for one, begin to think of the world as cock-eyed and of its inhabitants as upon those lost in a dense cloud of smog? Is it any wonder that I say, "Everybody is queer but thee and me, and sometimes I think thee is a little queer."

Now to add to the fear and confusion of mankind, our scientists come along with the H bomb, a thing well calculated to strike terror to the hearts of earth's bravest. It seems that our President is to determine whether this great instrument of destruction is to be made or consigned to the limbo of things best forgotten.

No one man should be entrusted with so momentous a decision. No one man should be entrusted with the lives and deaths of millions of his fellow humans. Were I Mr. Truman, with this great burden upon my conscience, I'd leave Washington, and escape to some vast wilderness; there I would sit me down and think for forty days and nights and longer and as I thought I would try to keep my primitive, savage and medieval minds in abeyance and so think, if possible with the mind that should belong to civilized man in this great age of strife and folly.

Were I Mr. Truman, I think I would write a letter to Mr. Stalin after this fashion, "Dear Mr. Stalin, We, you and I, be two small men in two big places, and it is within our power to put a stop to armament races, to control atomic power, to use it for the good of mankind and not for indiscriminate slaughter. Can't we get together and accomplish something of real value? Can't we so live that we may escape the brand of Cain?"

I have never heard of any real means of controlling this devastating force called atomic energy. Is there any means whereby it may be rendered impotent as a weapon of slaughter? What would happen to us all if one of our vaunted stock piles should suddenly let go—blow up and release the deadly powers upon our modern ways of life? Until I receive an answer to these questions, I shall avoid areas where atomic bombs are stored, manufactured or purveyed. And as for the H bomb, if Mr. Truman gives its makers the green light, I hope they will name it when completed, Good Bye to Hope, for that in my estimation is just what it will be. That a surge of reason may flow through the modern mind of man is a prayer we may well utter, for truly mankind seems about to dash over the precipice into the deep maelstrom of destruction.

ADELINE MERRIAM CONNER.

Lookin' Around with "Mac"

SOUTH TO NORTH . . . .

The friendliness and helpfulness of the folks in Nevada City belies the provincial wisecrack of the northerner who said "No good comes from south of the Tehachapis." Because I will readily admit I'm a native son. Not only that, but my wife and I and all three of the minor McKenneys were born in southern California. People don't look away when we confess it. We are treated civilly; we haven't been asked for our passports.

We come with an immense appreciation for the beauty of this Sierran wonderland and the historic traditions of Nevada county. We have been critical and sometimes embarrassed by the queer fads and fancies which seem to have found fertile ground for growth in the Southland. In short, we are prepared to adopt Nevada City as our home, to accept and respect its serious conventions, to join in its frivolities, and to contribute to the community what talents and energies may be ours to give.

We come from semi-desert country, where a half-inch rain produces three-inch headlines. The Southland is intensely conscious of water; its chief spokesmen predict that lack of water will curtail or limit population growth. We see the forests, lakes, and streams of Nevada County as a great natural asset which should be cherished and preserved. If the matter of selling or granting water rights to outside interests should be a local community issue, you will see me standing with the conservationists who would keep these rights for any forseeable need in this county.

INTRODUCING . . . .

"Lookin' Around" is a column title I have used for 16 years on three other weekly papers. My view may sometimes be dim, my thought rarely ponderous. But like Preston Tucker, I usually get acquittal on grounds of pure intent. I abhor disorder, non-responsibility, and dishonesty and nothing makes me madder than to see a little man kicked around by a bulky bully. But as the title indicates, my thoughts—such as they may be—are usually those of an observer and not of a knight galloping about in shining armor.

Ken and I will share responsibilities in the ownership and operation of The Nugget. Though we have met but briefly, we feel that our personalities are compatible and that we can bring to this business certain parallel skills and experiences which will compliment each other and assure a good newspaper. We haven't even discussed politics. He may boost for Norman Thomas on his side of the page and I may urge a Hoover comeback. But on at least one point we will stand together politically: we cherish the American ideals of freedom. Nothing else matters if this paper constantly stands for integrity in government (with as much of the former and as little of the latter as possible) and applies the test of 'what's best for our people?'

We are not going to set the world on fire and we won't make a lot of promises. But we like to work, neither of us would be happy outside the newspaper business, and we have a lot of faith in the people and the prospects of Nevada County. I must lean heavily on Ken these first few days for orientation. But we must both look to you, our readers, for daily guidance. Your letters and visits will be appreciated. Naturally, we want to build a sound business in our print shop and newspaper but to be perfectly frank about it, we know we cannot be successful unless we serve you well and faithfully.

THE BOSS AND THE TRIBE . . . .

This weekend the Boss and the three younger Macs will come to make their home at 341 Clay Sstreet. The Boss isn't a newspaperwoman, presumably she reigns only in the home, though her power is mighty and felt in curious ways. A friend back in Yucaipa asked what my first column subject would be in Nevada City and while I hesitated the Boss helpfully filled in: "He'll introduce the family, of course; he always does. And he'll call me the Goodwife and it just makes me shudder." So I've turned the tables on her by calling her the Boss and she won't love that either. At home I call her Honey; in slightly more formal surroundings I call her Ruth, but never her full name, which is Lee Ruth.

Jody is the oldest; she's 13. And she'll murder me because she announced as we were preparing to move that her name in Nevada City would be Mickey. I'll just have to hope that her schoolmates in the eighth grade won't see this. Her real name is Wanda Jo. We are a family of aliases.

Patsy is our second daughter; she's 10. Patsy isn't boy-conscious like Jody (I mean Mickey) yet, but she doesn't have to be. She blinks her eyes and walks over their prostrate bodies. I haven't actually seen this phenomena but that's the way I hear it at the supper table. Her full name is Patricia Lee.

Jon is our eight-year old boy. Life is a little complex for him with two older sisters and all. What frustrations may result find their counter-balance in the collector's art. The Boss nearly fainted once when he dragged home a green goat's hide. Her voice was cool and controlled when she ordered this new treasure deposited at the back end of the lot until Daddy came home. Jon and Daddy labored for days over that bloody hide but it never did turn into a throw-rug for the den. I swore if he brought home a bee-hive I'd toss it out the window without delay, together with those ideas in the Parent's books about "training for citizenship through father-son companionship." We'll go back to splitting kindling first.

Boy Scouts Mark 40th Anniversary

Official poster marking the 40th birthday.

The 40th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America will be observed Feb. 6 to 12 in every part of the nation by more than 2,300,000 boys and adult leaders. "Strengthen Liberty" is the birthday theme. The Boy Scouts' "Crusade to Strengthen the Arm of Liberty" continues through 1950.

During Boy Scout Week, Units will hold "Crusade Night" meetings when 1949 Crusade Awards will be presented. Representing the 12 Scout Regions, 12 outstanding Boy Scouts will make a "Report to the Nation" at Washington, D.C., where the Movement was incorporated Feb. 8, 1910. They will also take part in an impressive ceremony at Independence Hall in Philadelphia.

The highlight of 1950 will be the Second National Jamboree which will see 40,000 Scouts and Leaders camping together at Valley Forge, Pa., from June 30 to July 6, including Scouts of other lands.

Since 1910 more than 16,500,000 boys and men have been identified with the Boy Scouts of America.

TOMORROW LAST DAY FOR LICENSE RENEWAL

Captain Joseph E. Blake of Nevada county highway patrol reminded motorists tomorrow is last day in which they may renew their automobile registrations without penalty.

After midnight tomorrow, he pointed out, it will be 'a misdemeanor to drive a vehicle not equipped with 1950 tabs.

Penalties for failing to renew registrations on time are 100 per cent of the $6 registration fee, 50 per cent of the vehicle license fee and 100 per cent of commercial weight fees.

Captain Blake said business has been heavy at the county office all week. The patrol office is located one mile east of Grass Valley on highway 20.

Brush Burning Gains Favor

Both the forest service and the bureau of land management have modified their traditional opposition somewhat to controlled brush burning. Both these agencies were cooperative in their attitude toward a joint interim committee of the California legislature on soil conservation here this week, headed by Francis Lindsay, one of the assemblyman from my district. This legislative interim committee held a conference with Secretary of Agriculture Brannan and Assistant Secretary of Interior William Warne, as well as the California delegation subcommittee on agriculture.

The forest service is cooperating in the controlled burning program now being carried on in the state division of forestry. The bureau of land management, which handles all public lands outside of the national forests, including the Taylor grazing lands, has been somewhat of a stumbling block but told Assemblyman Lindsay and me there is no policy in the department against controlled brush burning and that in fact they were doing some brush burning of their own in other parts of the U. S. It was indicated that the mechanics of better cooperation with experimental brush burning in California will be cleared up. This change in attitude will be encouraging to all the livestock people who have most bitterly complained especially about the national forests being permitted to grow up to brush patches.

Soil Conservation Funds

California at the present time is not securing its fair share of funds for soil conservation district work. California has approximately three percent of the soil conservation districts in the nation, but receives two percent of the funds. Since one percent is equivalent to a half million dollars, getting California a percentage of the funds equal to its percentage of the districts is a matter of some importance. Soil conservation in other parts of the U. S. has proceeded much more rapidly than in California. There are eight states in the south whose entire area is covered with soil conservation districts. Since the states in the South and East had a head start, they have gotten hold of most of the money and it will take some time to get a readjustment for California where rapid strides in soil conservation districts are being made.

There are nine soil conservation districts in the second congressional district now—one in each of the following counties: Placer, Nevada, El Dorado, Mono, Sierra, Shasta, and two in Siskiyou. Plans are rapidly going forward for the organization of others.

PROSPERITY DEPENDS UPON CONSERVATION

"Future prosperity and level of employment of this county and state depends on conservation and wise use of our natural resources," DeWitt Nelson, state forester, and former supervisor of Tahoe national forest, told the members of Nevada county conservation council in a meeting Thursday evening, last week, in Veterans Memorial building, in Grass Valley.

Nelson outlined the program of the state board of forestry in the conservation of state's timber resources to assure continued timber production.

Nelson said despite California's creation of the first state division of forestry legislation enforcing timber practices, brush burning and insect control was not enacted until 1945. Nelson said 80 percent of timber harvested last year in California was under the forest practices act.

One of the benefits of the 1945 timber practices act was creation of range land by brush burning and in 1949, Nelson said, 1,500 acres of brush land was cleared in Nevada county.

Following Nelson's talk election of 1950 officers resulted in naming of Leon Sanford, president; William Wilson, vice president, and Keith MacDonald, secretary.

Harry Hyatt, retiring secretary, reviewed 1949 activities of the council which included timber management project at county fairgrounds, public dumping grounds, and curbing of crop damage by deer.

Approximately 90 persons attended the meeting which was presided over by M. A. Benedict, 1949 president. Benedict also introduced Nelson.

Among those attending the meeting were Guerdon Ellis, supervisor of Tahoe national forest; Harold Johnson, Roseville, state senator; Frank Delaney, Downieville, chief ranger, Sierra county, and secretary of Sierra County Chamber of Commerce; C. O. Armstrong, Nevada County Farm Bureau president; Joel Bierwagen and Leland Smith, 17th District Agricultural association directors; Clarence Gassaway; George W. Hallock, president, California Hydraulic Mining association and member of state mining board; and Roy Tremoureux, president Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce.

CUB SCOUTS AIDING IN MARCH OF DIMES

Nevada City Cub Scout pack 23 has enlisted in the March of Dimes campaign which has been extended until Wednesday, Feb. 15, according to Onda Smith, cubmaster.

Smith said the Cubs are selling tickets to the benefit show and dance next Friday, Feb. 10, at the Elks hall. Nevada City Lions club is sponsor for the party.

Frank Stewart and Chet Murchell will direct the show which will feature songs, skits and novelty numbers. Included in the cast are the Peterson brothers, DeVere Montino, George Hansen, Lucy Murchell, Howard Jones, Dorothy Jones, Bill Tobiassen, Bernice Gibson, Mel Davis and Stewart and Murchell. Stewart will also serve as master of ceremonies.

The meeting opened with official flag salute led by Cubmaster Smith.

Wolf badge and patch: Mike Powell, Cedric Porter, Charles Giani and Kent Johnson.

Bear badge and patch: Jerry Purssell.

Lion badge and patch: Billy Kolstead and Tommy McGuire.

Jerry Kyle was awarded Denner stripe being recently elected Denner of Den 3. Jimmy Peat was elected Assistant Denner. Keeper of the Buckskin award went to Larry Hornberger.

Gold Arrows were presented to Tommy McGuire, Mike Powell, David Brisebell, Earl Sherman, Jerry Purssell, Jimmy Peat and Jerry Kyle.

Silver Arrows went to Mike Powell, David Brisebill, Ray Annear, Earl Sherman and Jerry Kyle.

Special award for best performance of skit went to Den 3 for presentation of King Arthur's Men in a tilting contest. Taking part were Ray Annear, Jimmy Peat, Larry Hornberger, David Brisebill, Earl Sherman, Robert Frantz, Cedric Porter and Jerry Kyle.

Letters to The Editor

The views and opinions appearing in this column, Letters to The Editor, are not necessarily those of The Nugget.

Jan. 21, 1950

Gentlemen:

Have read with interest your article entitled "Granddaddy of All Winter Storms, etc."

Did you dig up your own files and read what Ed Uren offered in the issue of April 6, 1943. He tells about this memorable winter and ends by stating it can happen again.

Now the statement about persons living here grown to adulthood not seeing enough snow to permit learning the joys of sledding. This is absolutely and entirely wrong.

Our usual winters gave us a fall of snow and some freezing weather giving us kids much sledding pleasure and once in a while we missed using our sleds for the entire winter. This sport became so popular that at times a good track was made on the planked streets. Start made at Methodist church and ended by climbing the Boulder Street hill and what a time with the heavy bob sleds—six to ten people on them.

I was the Junior Legg of the Legg & Shaw Co., original Alpha. The boys in the shop made a bob sled entirely of ¾ and 1 inch ordinary pipe and it was a fast one. The best year was when the boards were coated with snow very thin and a little frost making that place in front of your office as slick as glass. No vehicles in the way except in the day time and at night one seldom encountered horses on the street. If any were out, had ample time to play safe.

In 1879 before I was quite old enough to get out after dark remember sitting at my window in a house (now gone) opposite the Fred Searls home and watch the boys coast down that sidewalk to the schoolhouse. The course down Nevada street was too steep for safety. Case of a broken leg kept most of us away. The youngsters of this hill started in the yard now owned by John Fortier and slid down to the foot bridge but were forced to turn sharply to the left in front of the Robert Carr place. Living over the store (now hot mill) my favorite place was Main street, starting in front of Fred Cassidy's home and sometimes ending on the Main street bridge. Remember except for Broad street wood planking on the course was not good unless we used the sidewalks. With the coming of cement sidewalks our sledding never was as good.

Did you interview Jack Grissel. Now living on Coyote St. He was the man with McLeod in your story. The body was placed on a large bob sled drawn by horses and I remember seeing it whiz by on Sunday morning down Broad street from Armory hall (Purity store site) to the cemetery. Mrs. G. B. Legg's mother, now deceased, was living in Washington and has told about waking every one and getting out only to find McLeod dead.

The Grissel people owned the stage line and it was utterly impossible to get through from here except on snow shoes. There lived a sporty gang at the Yuba and Eagle Bird mine up the river from Washington. They experienced a calamity. Got out of whiskey. Were so incensed at the Grissels that an opposition stage line was started in the spring.

CHILDREN'S DENTAL HEALTH WEEK OBSERVED HERE

JONE PEDERSEN, Miss California, joins dentists of the State in encouraging children to care for their teeth.

CHILDREN'S Dental Health Week will be observed here as throughout the state, on February 6-12, in an effort to reduce the great loss created by dental decay. Surveys have shown that with America's refined diets today, decay is occuring six times faster than American dentists can repair it. These same surveys show that nine out of every ten Americans are suffering from dental illness.

Sponsored by the American Dental Association, the California State Dental Association, and the local dental society, Children's Dental Health Week will seek to point out that decay can be greatly reduced by proper care of the teeth at home. Jone Pedersen, Miss California for 1949, is aiding the dental profession in the educational campaign.

She has appealed to the young people of the State with the following statement: "The people who succeed are the ones who do those little things it is sometimes easier not to do. Take your teeth for instance. Of course sometimes it seems like a bother to brush your teeth; to go to the dentist when your're supposed to, and to eat the right kind of food. But you can be sure of this—the people who take the time each day to do those things now are the people who will enjoy good health, attractiveness and popularity later. It's your health. Why not take care of it now—and be proud of your smile all the rest of your life?"

The four rules for an attractive smile, as outlined by dentists for guidance of parents and children, are:

1. Brush your teeth after each meal—or at least after breakfast and before retiring at night.
2. Eat plenty of meat, eggs, butter, cheese, fresh fruit, green vegetables, and whole grain products. Cut down on sweets.
3. Drink plenty of milk.
4. Visit the dentist regularly so he may help prevent future trouble.

While progress in dental sciences now enable members of the profession to correct dental ailments, many feel that decay could be reduced by more than 50% if the rules for dental health were more closely followed, according to Dr. Donald B. Horner, Chairman of the State Dental Health Education Committee. "Our message is one of prevention rather than repair, for repair of damage which has already been done by neglect is expensive, time consuming, and uncomfortable."

NATIONAL FOREST BOARD OF APPEALS IS ESTABLISHED

Establishment of a national forest advisory board of appeals in the department of agriculture is reported by Perry A. Thompson, U. S. regional forester at San Francisco.

The board, established by an order of Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan, is to advise the secretary on any appeals to him from decisions of the chief of the forest service involving any public use of the national forests and other lands under administration or control of the forest service. The board will consist of five employees of the department of agriculture selected from agencies within the department other than the forest service. Membership of the new board will be announced later.

"Upon receipt of a written request to the secretary from the appellant," the order stated, "the secretary shall refer the appeal to the board before which the appellant may appear if he so desires and the board shall consider the appeal on its merits and furnish its advice and recommendations to the secretary."

Under existing regulations, the users of national forest lands, such as grazing permittees, purchasers of timber, and holders of other permits, may appeal from administrative decisions of the forest service to the secretary of agriculture. When an appeal comes to him, Secretary Brannan said, it has always been the practice to call upon members of the secretary's staff to make an objective study of the case prior to his personal consideration and decision. A number of grazing permittees, however, have expressed a desire for a more formal arrangement.

The new national forest advisory board of appeals should not be confused with the national forest board of review established in 1948. The board of review is composed of private citizens. Its purpose is to advise the secretary on questions of general policy and the solution of major problems arising in connection with administration of the national forests.

YELLOWJACKET BUZZINGS

By Darleen Crowley

The student body election was held Tuesday and Wednesday with Dick Penrose being elected president. Freshman, sophomore, junior and senior officers will be announced next week.

The English I class taught by Warren Immel finished the play, "As You Like It" last Wednesday with a test.

Pictures for the Quill, the high school year book, were taken this week. The pictures were taken by the photograph shop on Broad street. Pictures of the chorus, triple trio, majorettes, orchestra, Girls' League, paper staff and other of various interest were completed.

Hal Draper, science teacher at the high school, has given two science tests the past week and a half. The class has just finished astronomy.

In chorus, William Tobiassen has been speaking of having a boys' trio in the very near future. The music class had a short test last Monday.

Betty Malcolm was named Nevada City high school candidate for queen of the dog derby to be held in Truckee. She won out over runnersup, D. Townsend and Sandra Pease.

She will compete with other candidates from the surrounding area in the annal Truckee event.

An assembly was given yesterday afternoon at the high school. It featured "The Missourians," a colored quartet. Solos were "Because" and "Lucky Old Sun," and many outstanding spirituals.

The program was followed by presentation of report cards for the first semester.

Another assembly is scheduled for this morning.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY SEES MINING FILMS

A colored motion picture of placer gold mining, a display of mining relics from the historical society museum and special music featured last night's meeting of the Nevada County Historical society at a dinner at the National hotel.

Mrs. Isabel Hefelfinger, president of the organization, declared the society is open to all interested in preserving the county's past. "There is a job for everyone in our society," she said. "We believe we are offering Nevada county's biggest one dollar value when one considers the scope of the society's program."

Last year the society brought outstanding speakers and programs to Nevada county, published a monthly bulletin that reached all parts of the U. S., constructed and placed 76 historical markers and maintained the museum which was visited by over 3,000 persons from all parts of the country.

Other officials of the organization are Elmer Stevens, vice president; Mrs. Bernice Penrose, secretary-treasurer; Judge James Snell, George W. Hallock, Robert Paine, William Durbrow, W. W. Kallenberger, Mrs. Amelia Cunningham, Eugene Ingalls, Mrs. Juliet Cox and George H. Calanan, directors.

WYOMING TRIBE POWOW CELEBRATES 58 YEARS

Wyoming Tribe, Improved Order of Redmen, observed completion of 58 years of activity in Nevada City at a regular meeting Wednesday evening.

Commemoration of the establishment of the order here was by smoking the pipe of peace.

During its existence in Nevada City the tribe has taken part in every patriotic and social activity of the community.

Two members of the local tribe have won recognition by winning the election of Great Sachem of the state. They were Rev. Josiah Sims and Congressman Harry Englebright.

Two oldest living members of the tribe are W. S. Cordrey, San Francisco, and W. L. Boardman, Martinez. There are no charter members surviving.

The local tribe has twice been host to the Great Council of the state.

KEIF MELBERG WILL PARTICIPATE IN SACRAMENTO DEBATE

Keif D. Melberg, supervisor of Nevada City office of department of social welfare, will participate in a discussion of lively topics of social welfare tomorrow at California junior high school in Sacramento.

"Should children of aged persons be responsible for the financial support of their elders," is one of the topics to enter into the discussion. Another question up for considerable debate is question of county versus state administration of old age assistance. Family welfare, health and group work will also be included as discussion subjects.

GRASS VALLEY MINERS INVADES NEVADA CITY

A close game on the local high school court is scheduled tonight between the Yellowjackets and the Grass Valley Miners as the two teams renew an ancient feud.

Both teams have lost all league games so far this season and this game will determine which team will hold cellar position.

The B game is slated for 7 o'clock with the varsity expected to start about 8 o'clock.

The Yellowjackets lost their fourth league contests Friday at Roseville with the varsity dropping a 44 to 24 game and the B squad losing 39 to 29.

Cartoscelli and Havey led the scoring for the Yellowjackets.

A lack of strength in the final quarter was the difference in the preliminary game as Immel's boys were unable to keep up with reserves of the Tiger Cubs.

HENRY P. BROWN DIES IN RENO

Henry P. Brown, a former resident of Nevada City and retired Washoe county game warden, died in Reno, Nev., Dec. 21 of a heart ailment after a four-week illness. Funeral services were held Dec. 23.

Brown, born in Nevada City in 1876, the son of a pioneer family, came to Nevada as a youth during the 1904 Goldfield gold rush. He served as constable of Columbia township and later was undersheriff to Sheriff Ingalls in Goldfield.

He moved to Reno in 1916 and was engaged in mining. In 1920, he was appointed prohibition agent for the Reno area, a post he held for five years. He was named game warden in 1926 and held that position until he retired in June, 1947, the first official of Washoe county, to retire under its present pension laws.

THREE CENTS OF YOUR FEDERAL TAX DOLLAR RUNS GOVERNMENT

Only three cents of every dollar collected in federal taxes is used to operate the government.

All the rest of it is distributed into a multitude of operations acquired in the trend toward a welfare state.

Seventy-one cents out of every dollar goes to pay for past wars or prepare for future wars. In 1939 29 cents of each dollar was channeled the same way. These figures include expenditures for international affairs and finance; national defense; veterans services and benefits; and interest on public debt, primarily incurred for World War II.

The 1951 budget calls for expenditures estimated at about $42,400,000,000. Budget experts estimate receipts will bring in approximately $37,300,000,000 to leave a need for $5,100,000,000 to be borrowed or raised by new taxes.

A breakdown of where your federal tax dollar will go in 1951 is as follows:

National defense, 31.9 cents; veterans programs, 14.3 cents; interest on debt, 13.3 cents; international, 11.1 cents; social welfare, 6.4 cents; natural resources, 5.2 cents; agriculture, 5.2 cents; transporation and communication, 4 cents; housing and community development, 3.1 cents; general government, 3 cents; education and general research, 1 cent; labor, .6 cents; industry, .5 cents; reserve, .4 cents.

STEPHEN HAMMOND CALLED BY DEATH

Funeral services were held on Tuesday at the Holmes Funeral Home for Stephen Hammond, 78, who died Sunday morning at the Nevada county hospital. Interment was in Forest View cemetery under auspices of Banner Mountain Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Hammond, a resident of Nevada City for 10 nears, had been a patient at the hospital for a month.

He was born Nov. 15, 1871, in Shelsberg, Iowa, and was a veteran of the Spanish-American war.

He made his home here with a daughter, Mrs. Marcum Baker, 123 Nivens Lane.

Other survivors are sons, Stephen L. Hammond, Sacramento; Charles Hammond, North Bloomfield; and Norville Hammond, Nevada City; two brothers, Jack Hammond, Minnesota, and Arthur Hammond, Arbanna, Iowa.

SEARCH FOR PLANE

Late Wednesday search planes were still unable to locate an airplane reported in trouble in the Sierra country between Camptonville and Oroville. A woman resident of the area 20 miles west of Camptonville phoned the sheriff's office that a plane circled her house but she was not able to say whether it had crashed.

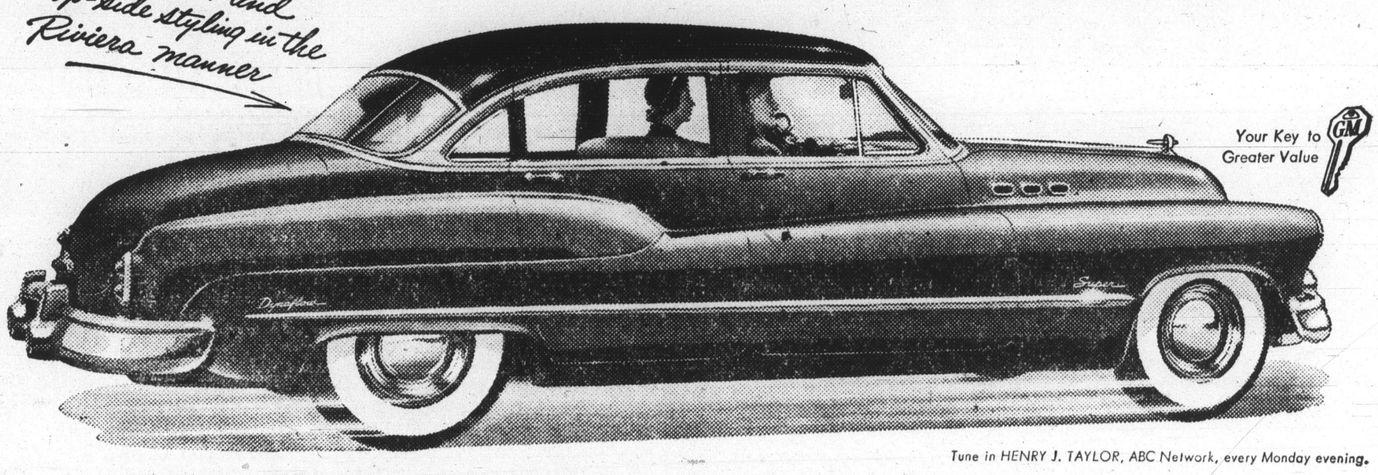
TWO-WAY STRETCH
that's strictly inside stuff!

Look! Wrap-around rear windows and top-side styling in the Riviera manner



Tune in HENRY J. TAYLOR, ABC Network, every Monday evening.

HERE'S THE NEW 1950 BUICK SUPER 126, companion body-type to the equally new ROADMASTER 130. Both are shorter than last year's 4-door Sedans—yet 4 inches longer in wheelbase. In both, the difference is used to give you real stretch-out room in the rear seat.

What the boys did here really calls for some medals.

We gave them the job of coming up with something that was bigger inside—for room and comfort—longer in wheelbase—always important to good riding qualities—yet unbulky and easy-handling in over-all dimensions.

Just look how well this tidy number meets these "impossible" specifications!

Item two—in every dimension—leg-room, head-room, hip-room, shoulder-room—this rear-seat compartment is bigger than previous models—and nearly four inches longer, fore and aft, than other 1950 Buick interiors.

Item three — wheelbases are the longest of our 1950 line. On the SUPER, it is 125½" instead of 121½"—on the ROADMASTER 130¼" instead of 126¼".

Yet — and here's where the magic comes in — the whole car is shorter over-all. Actually less from bumper to bumper than previous Buicks in these series.

That means easier parking, easier tucking away in family garages, easier maneuvering in crowded traffic.

There are some other things too. An extra rear-quarter window not found in standard 4-door Sedans. A different upperstructure styling that makes this body-type stand out as something pretty special.

Even special names that let you say, "I drive a SUPER 126" or "Mine's a ROADMASTER 130," just by way of being different.

Yes, we think we hit on a happy idea in the "Longfellows," as they're coming to be known. They are not longer, on the outside, but there's a two-way stretch—in width and length—in the rear compartment.

You're going to like that—as you'll see by calling on your own Buick dealer. If he doesn't have one on hand, he can get it pretty promptly—and at a price and on a deal you'll have trouble matching, much less beating, anywhere else.

See him now, will you—about placing an order?

Features like these mean

HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines, five hp ratings. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models.)

NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with bumper-guard grilles, taper-through fenders, "double bubble" taillights.

WIDE-ANGLE VISIBILITY, close-up road view both forward and back.

TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius.

EXTRA-WIDE SEATS cradled between the axles.

SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all-coil springing, Safety-Ride rims, low-pressure tires, ride-steadying torque-tube.

DYNAFLOW DRIVE standard on all ROADMASTERS, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL series.

NINETEEN MODELS with Body by Fisher.

WIDE CHOICE OF EQUIPMENT adding flexibility to prices that bracket every price range above the lowest.

OVERDUE DEDUCTIONS REFUNDED VETERANS

Veterans who receive national service life insurance dividend checks from which previous overpayments by the veterans administration have been deducted, were advised by Robert P. Shields, manager of San Francisco regional office of veterans administration, that the finance division of the regional office under whose jurisdiction the veterans account is maintained, will refund any overdue deduction.

In a few cases, cash payments made by the veteran and deductions previously made by the VA, plus the amount deducted from the dividend, exceed the indebtedness of the veteran to the government.

The refund of these over-deductions will be made automatically as soon as advice regarding the amounts deducted from each such individual dividend check is received by the local regional office from Washington.

In view of the necessity for full information being supplied to the regional office by Washington, veterans are urged not to contact the local VA office, since the accounts will be adjusted automaticallys as soon as the information is received, Shields declared.

An Inside Story of Value to You

This is the story of a tiny advertisement. It announced in a few words that a washing machine was for sale and gave the price and address. It appeared in a weekly newspaper which was delivered to readers Thursday noon. Thursday afternoon the lady who placed the ad at a cost of thirty cents called the editor of the paper and said, "I want to testify that little ad certainly brought results. If I had a half dozen machines I could have sold them all. I just wish there was some way of stopping the customers. Pardon me while I answer the doorbell. Just wanted to let you know I'll use the paper again when I want fast results."

That's the kind of testimony an editor likes to hear, of course. And it is not unusual when the volume of classified advertising in a newspaper attracts regular readers. The editor knows that his paper is performing a very useful service which saves his readers money and speeds up small transactions in his community.

The Nugget does not carry a lot of classified advertising because readers haven't got the "little" ad habit. We want to increase the number of ads appearing in The Nugget for two reasons. First, for the obvious selfish reason that it represents a small revenue to the publishers; but more important, the little ads perform a very valuable service to the community at very little cost and they make friends for the paper.

We want to introduce YOU to the little ad habit. Our rates are low: two cents a word, thirty cents a week minimum charge. To save bookkeeping effort, we ask only that cash accompany your ad copy. If you have something to sell or if there's something you want to buy but can't find, or if you want to swap or lease or rent something . . . just write it out in a few words and drop it off at The Nugget office. No phone calls, please. And we would like to have your copy by Wednesday evening. Once you have tried the little ad habit, you'll be a regular customer. And that will make us both happy.

COUNTY CITIZENS BUY $224,107 SERIES "E" SAVINGS BONDS IN 1949

Nevada county citizens purchased a total of $224,107 worth of Series "E" U. S. Savings Bonds during 1949, it was announced by the volunteer county chairman, James A. Tyrrell, Grass Valley.

Reporting year-end sales figures, just released by Federal Reserve, the chairman stated Series "E" sales during December accounted for $12,792 of the year's total.

"These heartening sales figures indicate," Chairman Tyrrell added, "the continued popularity of savings bonds as a safe, sure and profitable investment for the greatest number of people.

"In addition to earning highest rate of interest of any government security, E bonds offer the average person his only opportunity to purchase safe investments on the partial payroll savings and bond-a-month plans.

"Putting away a little out of each pay check, or through the monthly deductions from bank checking accounts, more and more people each year are finding U. S. savings bonds a regular and profitable means of building a financial reserve. With complete safety, their savings in bonds are growing one-third in value each ten years . . . yet are immediately cashable in case of emergency."

The chairman also reported the 47 counties of northern California showed an increase in "E" bond sales of 1.42 percent during 1949. Sales for the year amounted to $115,921,512 against 1948 sales of $114,277,805. Series "F" and "G" bond sales accounted for $40,159,193 for an overall northern California sales figure for all series of U. S. savings bonds of $156,080,705 during 1949.

Lillian McConnell Marries David Rowe In Sunday Service

Miss Lillian Margaret McConnell, daughter of Mrs. Mary McConnell, 337 South Church St., Grass Valley, became the bride of David Glenn Rowe, son of Supervisor and Mrs. Frank J. Rowe of 250 Maiden Lane, Grass Valley, at St. Patrick's Catholic church Sunday afternoon.

Rev. Father Patrick O'Reilly, dean of the church, officated at the double ring ceremony. White snapdragons and white carnations were used in church decorations.

The bride, who came down the center aisle on the arm of her brother, James McConnell, was beautifully gowned in Skinner white satin, with the bodice set in seed pearls. Her long train enhanced her complete bridal ensemble. Miss McConnell wore a neat little poke bonnet. Her bridal bouquet was of white callas.

Attending as matron of honor, Mrs. Tat Johnson, her sister, wore a gown of American Beauty satin and an arm bouquet of red roses.

Bridesmaids were Miss Pat Pike, Reno, Nev.; Miss Mimi Fields, San Mateo; Mrs. Barbara Deal Foreman, Nevada City; and Mrs. Carol George Anderson of Grass Valley. All were identically gowned in aqua satin, wearing half hats and red roses in arm bouquets.

Mrs. McConnell, mother of the bride, was gowned in beige pink brocaded taffeta and wore a corsage of American Beauty roses, with flowers to match in her hair.

Mrs. Rowe, mother of the groom, was tastefully gowned in blue lace, and wore a corsage of camellias. She wore light feathers in her hair.

Vernon Rowe stood with his brother as groomsman, with Vernon Tittle, Eric Anderson, James Trathen and Albert Keeny as ushers.

All guests and the bridal party proceeded from the church to the Bret Harte Inn, where the young justweds received hundreds of friends in a receiving line.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowe left on a wedding trip of a week or 10 days to Monterey and Carmel and probably Santa Barbara.

At the reception Mrs. James McConnell and Mrs. Margaret Rowe were in charge of the punch bowl and Minnie Smart and Mrs. J. F. O'Connor poured for the guests. Cakes were passed to all guests by Mrs. Albert Keeny. The guest book was in charge of Miss Kay Hawkins.

Both Glenn Rowe and his bride are 1943 graduates of Grass Valley high school. Rowe served with the U. S. marine corps in the South Pacific during the war and since his return has been employed by the County of Nevada.

Ellis-Ingram Marriage Set

Mr. and Mrs. Guerdon Ellis of Nevada City have announced the engagement of their daughter, Genevieve Ellis, to Peter Ingram of Grass Valley.

Miss Ellis is a sophomore majoring in dental hygiene at the University of California, Berkeley. She was graduated from the Nevada City high school with the class of 1948, where she was student body president, editor of The Quill, staff member of the school paper, captain of majorettes and queen of the annual track tournament.

She was choir director of the state assembly of the Order of Rainbow for Girls and is past worthy advisor of the organization.

Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ingram, Grass Valley. He is a graduate of the Grass Valley high school, a former Texas A. & M. student and a veteran of World War II.

Ingram is a senior at the University of California majoring in journalism and will join the staff of the Grass Valley Union after his graduation in June.

Date of the wedding tentatively has been set for Saturday, June 24.

D of P Installs New Officers

Anna Bell Brake was installed Pocahontas of Ponemah Council No. 6, Degree of Pocahontas, at a meeting last week in the Odd Fellows hall.

Other officers installed were Loretta Baldwin, Wenonah; Peggy Mlinarich, Prophetess; Olaf Bjornstal, Powhatan; Maude Mullin, First Scout; Thelma Butz, Second Scout; Alma Gregory, First Aide; Marie McGuire, Second Aide; Elizabeth Lashbaugh, First Runner; Sylvia Lester, Second Runner; Margaret Smith, First Warrier; Alice Jenkins, Second Warrior; Martha Dimmen, Third Warrior; Erma Ryason, Fourth Warrior; Hortense Bjornstal; Louise Moody, Second Councillor; Olga Lynn, Guard Tepee; Ann Silva, Guard Forest.

Deputy Great Pocahontas Hildred Branson was installing officer and Fred Thomas, Great Guard of the Forest, Ceanotha Council, Grass Valley, was Mishenawa for the evening.

Elizabeth Lashbaugh gave the obligation to all officers and installed the Prophetess. Other installing officers: Mrs. Thelma Butz, Mrs. Clifford Lester, Mrs. Mararet Smith, Mrs. Aileen Fertig, Mrs. Goldie Wanamake and Mrs. Grace Englebright.

"Bells of Joy" furnished the decorative scheme, honoring the new Pocahontas, Anna Belle Brake. The bells were symbolic of her name. White "glitter" bells trimmed in fuschia and white crepe paper streamers decorated each station and a large basket of greenery was placed at the Pocahontas station.

Mrs. Brake, the new Pocahontas, wore a white formal trimmed in sequins and carried a bell-shaped basket filled with jonquils and violets. The escort team dressed in pastel formals repeated the "bell" theme by carrying medium sized glitter bells.

Mrs. Peggy Mlinarich, the outgoing Pocahontas, presented all of her officers with lovely gifts. Gifts were exchanged between the chiefs.

Thelma Butz and Peggy Mlinarich were in chareg of decorations. Mrs. Butz was in charge ot refreshments.

Following the installation the group was served delicious Italian dinner by Mrs. Butz and her committee. "Joy Bells" also were the dominant theme in the banquet hall. The officers table was decorated with the bells in the form of the horn of plenty with holly forming "breaks" in the bells further symbolizing the name of Anna Belle Brake. Graduated candles in crystal holders carried out a red and white theme.

New chiefs will be instructed in duties and new committees appointed at a meeting of the council Friday, Feb. 10.

Twelfth Birthday of Jim Kendrick Is Honored

Jim Kendrick celebrated his twelfth birthday by a dinner and theatre party given by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Kendricks on Sunday afternoon.

Following a delicious chicken dinner served by Mrs. Kendrick cutting the birthday cake and the opening of presents the young folks attended the show.

Those present included Jerry O'Shaughnessy, Bronte Reynolds, Darnell Reynolds, Clifford Pooler, Eugene Foote, Ronnie Williams, Harold Hummelt, Bobby Rideout, Bobby Fischer, Bobby Steger, Jim Shock and the honored guest.

PTA to Award Life Pin

A full program will mark this afternoon's meeting of the Nevada City Elementary Parent-Teachers association when life membership award will be revealed and presented and the annual Founders' Day Tea observed at 2:40 p.m. at the elementary school.

Other features scheduled are an address on juvenile protection by Miss Alice Garrett, Sacramento, child welfare consultant of the department of social welfare, and a school demonstration by Miss Mason's kindergarten class. On the business agenda will be nomination and election of officers for the coming year.

The Founders Day ceremony, an event honoring Phoebe Apperson Hearst and Alice McLeland Birney, who laid the foundation for PTA in 1897 will be under the direction of Mrs. L. R. Evans. Founders day is observed during the month of February by PTA units throughout the nation.

Eight past presidents have been invited to take part in the affair and eighth grade students participating in the rite, "The Four Corner Stones," will be Ann Roy, Mary Brown, John Falconi and Gene Stuart. Background music will be furnished by the school orchestra under the direction of Franc Luschen.

Those taking part will be Gail Blodgett, Doreen Hathway, Emily Kelly and Janet Little on the violins; Wade Penrose, clarinet; David Haley, cello, and Bobby Fischer, piano.

A birthday cake will be served at the conclusion of the meeting by mothers of Mrs. Atkins' and Mrs. Smollett's first graders.

Mrs. Arnold Jackson will preside.

Christian Science Church
Christian Science Society of Nevada City holds services every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at the church, 114 Boulder street. Sunday School is held at 9:45 a.m.

Testimonial meetings are held on the first and third Wednesdays of each month at 8 p.m.

Our reading room is located at 207 Main street, and is open Monday, Wednesday and Friday, holidays excepted, from 2 to 4 p.m.

"Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty," (II Cor. 3:17). This is the golden text for the lesson-sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday, Feb. 5. The subject is "Spirit."

Included in the sermon will be these verses from II Peter: "Grace and peace be multiplied unto you through the knowledge of God, and of Jesus our Lord, According as his divine power hath given unto us all things that pertain unto life and godliness, through the knowledge of him that hath called us to glory and virtue: Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises: that by these ye might be partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust. And beside this, giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue; and to virtue knowledge; And to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness; And to godliness brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness charity. For so an entrance shall be ministered unto you abundantly into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ" (1:2-7, 11).

Among the correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will be the following: "Let us learn of the real and eternal, and prepare for the reign of Spirit, the kingdom of heaven, the reign and rule of universal harmony, which cannot be lost nor remain forever unseen" (p. 208).
